Tools required (not included in kit)

- Small round nose pliers
- Wire cutters
- Crimping pliers
- Bead stopper or peg or bulldog clip

Step 1

Prepare centre piece – place a 4mm golden shadow bicone, 6mm fuchsia bicone and 4mm golden shadow bicone on an eye pin. Turn a loop on the other end making sure that it is the same size and parallel to the first loop. Make another 3 sets. Open the loops sideways and connect them to the filigrees as shown in the picture then close the loop. Fix the drops to the filigrees with jump rings.

Step 2

Cut the tiger tail into 4 pieces. Connect the tiger tail, using wire protectors and crimps, to the filigrees as seen in the picture. Thread on each piece a 4mm golden shadow bicone, 6mm fuchsia bicone, keystone (make sure that the foil on the keystone faces the back and that the large end points out), a 6mm fuchsia bicone, keystone, 6mm bicone, keystone, 6mm bicone and a 4mm golden shadow bicone. Use a bead stopper to hold the other three tiger tails as you work on each one.

Step 3

Connect the two tiger tails on one side to one end of the chain using wire protectors and crimps. Repeat on the other side to the other end of the chain. Cover all crimps with crimp covers and close with the gap to the back.

Step 4

Cut chain in the centre and add the clasp using the split ring. The clasp can clip into the chain at any point to adjust the length of the necklace.
